

Product

The answer to a multiplication sentence

---

Least Common Multiple

The smallest multiple common to two or more numbers

---

Base

A number multiplied by itself the number of times shown by an exponent

---

Order of Operations

The rules telling what order to do the operations in

---

Prime Number

A whole number greater than 1 with exactly two whole positive factors: 1 and itself

---

Factor

A number that divides another number without a remainder

---

Exponent

A raised number telling how many times another number is being multiplied by itself

---

Composite Number

A number greater than 1 with three or more whole positive factors

---

Prime Factorization

A set of prime numbers whose product equals a composite number

